

Biomimicry Educators' Network

The Biomimicry Educators' Network (BEN) is an interactive community that fosters collaboration and resource sharing between educators. Designed to keep interactions vibrant and novel ideas flowing between biomimicry educators, the BEN group is housed on AskNature, The Biomimicry Institute's online inspiration source and database of biological solutions for the biomimicry community.

To apply for BEN membership, you must first create an AskNature profile. Once you have a profile, visit the BEN group and apply for membership by telling us a bit about your interest in biomimicry education.
